

KAPITAL 150

The Other 150th Anniversary

Symposium on the Relevance of Marx

Symposium Speakers
August Carbonella
Ricardo F. Macip
Pauline Gardiner Barber
Karen Foster
Nissim Mannathukkaren
Elizabeth Fitting

Karl Marx published volume one of Capital: A Critique of Political Economy on September 14, 1867. Recently, Marx's work has seen a resurgence, providing for many a crucial blueprint for a critique of capitalism. On this 150th anniversary year of the publication, the Sociology & Social Anthropology Department at Dalhousie University will be hosting a symposium of two panels of scholars addressing the relevance of Marx's Capital in their own work today. The event will also include a screening of Spectres of Marx & discussion with artist Bruce Barber.

FREE PUBLIC EVENT

No Registration Required
1PM FRIDAY NOVEMBER 3
University Hall, Macdonald Building
6299 South St, Halifax, NS

For more information & a detailed schedule:

www.KAPITAL150.ca

Hosted and Sponsored by the Dalhousie
Sociology & Social Anthropology Department